The Portland East facility supports a growing demand for multi-temperature distribution warehousing in the greater Portland metropolitan marketplace. This facility is located in the Portland suburb of Gresham, less than one mile from Henningsen’s Portland West operation. This facility is designed specifically for high-volume throughput — a flexible racking design and layout enables Henningsen to meet a variety of customer requirements, including case-pick consolidation and cross docking of temperature-controlled food products. Henningsen Transportation Services augments the operation by offering local, regional and nationwide transportation services to manufacturers, retail and food service distributors, and international customers utilizing the facility. Portland East utilizes the latest technology, including WMS systems, lighting, refrigeration controls, and material handling equipment, making it one of the most efficient distribution operations in the industry.
